It's a place that can win you over in a countless number of ways. Its undoubted advantage is that it is located on Dlouhá Street near Republic Square. The spirit of the whole club changes a bit with each event. Like every year, the new season will bring loads of big international stars as well as the hottest new names of the music industry.

The Roxy has had a great history. The space has existed as such since 1927 when there was a cinema on the site of today's club. The architect behind the venue emigrated to the US before the war and built an identical space in New York with the same.

The Roxy recieved several awards and is one of the top 100 best clubs in the world.

Global stars of house and techno music have grown up with the Roxy and the drum'n'bass labels like Hospital and RAM Records reached their peak there.

[→] WELCOME TO PRAGUE!

Welcome to Prague! Whether you've just landed with plane, arrived by train, bus or car, we have very important information about how to get to the city centre using all possible types of transport, without wasting more money than it's necessary.

↓ 1. PRAGUE BY PLANE

The airport is located on the northwest edge of Prague, about 20 kilometres (12 miles) from the centre of the metropolis. Your money can be changed in the currency exchange offices or kiosks situated in the airport. Important phone numbers include +420 220 111 888 (General info line - nonstop operation) and +420 220 115 005 (Lost and Found service).

↓ HOW TO GET TO THE CITY CENTER

If you've just arrived at the airport, getting to the centre will take about twenty to thirty minutes depending on traffic (if you use a taxi or shuttle service you will find necessary information below). If you choose cheaper but less convenient public transport you have to expect fifty minutes on the road.

↓...BY PUBLIC TRANSPORTATION

The bus is the cheapest way to get to the city centre. The disadvantage may be that you need to buy a bus ticket paid in Czech crowns or with credit card. To get the cash, you can use ATMs in the arrival halls of the airport. Or you can buy the actual ticket directly in a kiosk or at the information counter in both arrival halls (open from 7:00 a.m. to 10:00 p.m.). Furthermore, in the vending machines, located next to the bus stop, or directly from the bus driver (it will cost you a few crowns more). The ticket price is 32 CZK for a transfer ticket, with which you can freely switch among bus, tram and subway for 90 minutes. On the shorter distance and duration of 30 minutes you can use the ticket for 24 CZK (with this ticket, however, it is not allowed to switch among the types of transport). If you have more luggages, you will pay 16 Czech crowns extra.

Get off at the station Veleslavín (journey from the airport to the subway takes about 15 minutes). Subway entrance is located few steps from the bus stop. The bus runs from 4:23 a.m. until 11:45 p.m. at night.

BUS # 100

BUS # 100 runs every 15 minutes throughout the day and every 30 minutes after 7 p.m. The ride takes about 18 minutes, but expect another 20-minute subway ride, if your goal is to get to the city centre (Zličín is the final stop of subway line B). Bus runs 5:41 a.m. to 11:36 p.m. hours.

AIRPORT EXPRESS BUS

Airport Express Bus service connects the airport with the Prague's Main Railway Station and runs every 30 minutes and the journey takes about 35 minutes. You can use the Prague public transport fares or special fares: Tickets for AE can be bought only from the driver for 60 crowns (no additional charge for luggage). AE runs 5:30 a.m. to 9:00 p.m.

TRAVELLING AT NIGHT

If you have to use public transport at night, the best option is the BUS # 510, which runs between midnight and 3:26 a.m. and connects the airport with stop at Divoká Šárka. Afterwards take the TRAM # 51 which will go to the city centre. Night BUS # 510 runs every 30 minutes.

↓...BY TAXI

Companies of Taxi Praha and FIX are managing the taxi service from the Václav Havel Airport. Customers can enjoy free Wi-Fi, ensured availability of cars within 5 minutes of interest order in 24 hours a day, maximally 3-years old cars, advanced language skills of drivers, friendly demeanour, maintaining cleanliness and representative wear of vehicle drivers. Labelled taxis are waiting at the Václav Havel airport in two places – at Terminal 1 at the parking lot P1 EXPRESS and at Terminal 2 at the parking lot P2 EXPRESS - departures. Prices are not burdened with airport charges and therefore are considerably lower, while maintaining a high comfort of vehicles. One-time departure rate is 40 CZK and 1 km will cost 23.90 CZK (order taxi through dispatch call 14 014, +420 222 333 222, 729 331 133).

2. GETTING TO PRAGUE BY TRAIN

International trains stop at the central train station - Prague Main Railway Station. The station is directly connected to the subway station (line C), and is just a few steps away from the city centre, from Wenceslas Square. If you drive here after dark, we recommend you to go to Wenceslas Square subway (do not forget to buy a ticket). Most of the station is renovated and offers a modern look with plenty of stalls, shops and fast-food restaurants.

3. ARRIVAL BY BUS

Florenc is the central bus station. Located in the heart of the city and directly adjacent to the subway station Florenc (it is a transfer station between subway lines B and C). ## 4. ARRIVAL BY CAR

Prague, like most European cities, suffers from very heavy traffic and lack of freely available parking spaces (the street with blue coloured areas are reserved for residents and you risk stripping off your car when you park there). For over 1000 years, Prague has served as the political, cultural and economic centre of the Czech state. Having been the seat of two Holy Roman Emperors during the gothic and renaissance periods, it also had the status of the Holy Roman Empire capital. Prague's history commenced in the year 870, although evidence shows the area had been inhabited since the Stone Age. The city flourished during the 14th century, under the reign of King Charles IV, who, among other deeds, ordered the building of the famous Charles Bridge or Saint Vitus Cathedral, the oldest gothic cathedral in central Europe, and Charles University, the oldest university in central Europe. Prague was then the third-largest city in Europe. Now home to some 1.2 million inhabitants, Prague became the capital of the newly set up Czechoslovakia in 1918, with the end of WW I and the dissolution of the Austro-Hungarian Empire. In 1992, Prague's historic center became a UNESCO world heritage site, and is currently one of the world's most popular tourist destinations.

PRAŠNÁ BRÁNA

PRAGUE 1, NÁMĚSTÍ REPUBLIKY 5

The Powder Gate (Prašná brána) is a late-Gothic structure and one of the most important monuments of medieval Prague. It was here that the Royal Route began and where one of the main roads from Kutná Hora, where silver was mined into the royal treasury, led. The Powder Gate was built in place of the older Gate tower, related to the fortification of the Old Town of Prague from the time of Václav II's reign. The older tower was known as the Mountain Gate. The Powder Gate was designed largely as a representative symbol as well as a customs collection point. Its construction began in 1475. From about 1715 it served as a firepowder warehouse, hence the name 'Powder'. During the Prussia siege of Prague in 1757, the tower was considerably destroyed. Today's appearance was not acquired by the tower until 1878-1886 for a fresh look treatment, led by architect Josef Mocker. The draft was the Old Town Bridge Tower.

PRAGUE 1, STAROMĚSTSKÉ NÁMĚSTÍ

Mother of God Church Before Thine (Kostel Matky Boží v před Týnem) is located in the Old Town of Prague, close to Old Town Square. Its construction ran from the mid-14th century to the first decades of the 16th century.

STAROMĚSTSKÝ ORLOJ

PRAGUE 1, STAROMĚSTSKÉ NÁMĚSTÍ

The Old Town Square of the Old Town Orloj (Staroměstský orloj) are medieval astronomical clocks located on the south side of the Old Town Hall tower in Prague.

The first written reference to Orloj dates back to 1410. The clock is made up of several parts - apart from an astronomical and calendar plate, it is fitted with the mechanism of twelve apostles, who appear in two small windows every entire hour (9.00 - 11p.m.). In a parade of apostles, another mannequin on the sides of the clock comes alive in mechanical motion - the reaper ringing, turning the hourglass, indicating to the standing Turk that his time is up.

He's shaking his head away. Vanity and Lakomek behave similarly. The sought-after Orloj is part of the historic centre of Prague, belonging to the UNESCO list of cultural monuments.

WAITING FOR GODOT

The autumn months are usually some of the busiest in terms of culture, as everyone returns, full of energy, to work after the holidays. Well, there are no returns this year, even though we all “rested”.

We naively thought that by this time the Covid-19 crisis would be long over; instead, we anxiously read newspaper headlines every day to find out whether the government has prohibited anything recently. Well, it's a complicated time, but culture is trying as hard as possible not to get a rap across the knuckles in this dramaturgical mess.

So cinemas show films, musicians perform as much as possible (even though the number of chairs is constantly changing) and artists exhibit. We can only hope that this will still be the case in a few weeks' time. So you should look at the following overview with caution. The situation continues to change from minute to minute.

FEEL LIKE IN HOLLYWOOD!

Although you won't find any Hollywood movie stars in the Czech streets, many of them were filming here. So you can make a picture of Czech sites that adorn a lot of famous Hollywood movies.

We have to start with the blockbuster Mission: Impossible from 1996 with Tom Cruise in the lead role. It was the first major Hollywood production that visited Prague and the filmmakers had used a number of gorgeous Prague scenes. The party at the embassy was filmed at the National Museum, the escape from modern glass restaurant (cover photo) on the Old Town Square. In this case, however, keep in mind that the restaurant itself doesn't exist – it was made just for the purpose of filming the movie.

After 15 years the production of Mission: Impossible returned to Prague, this with the fourth chapter – Ghost Protocol. They used the Main Railway Station (the opening scene with killed agent) or the corner house in the street Pštrossova 17, where Ethan Hunt ran from the police. In 2002 Anthony Hopkins and Chris Rock visited Prague together to shoot an action thriller Bad Company. Rock was chased by bad guys in Thun Street in Lesser Town (Malá Štrana), Hopkins' agent went to helmet him through Castle stairs (Zámecké schody). Together they went to the Castle Square. They also used the Shooter's Island (Střelecký ostrov) in the Old Town (the scene with atomic bomb dealer).

Even the legendary vampire slayer Blade used the streets of Prague in his second adventure movie. From the entrance next to the pizzeria in the Sokolovská Street, the filmmakers made a vampire blood bank. And for the seat of vampire family Damaskinos they used secluded place of Vaníčkova Street.

Prague had a key role in the action movie of Vin Diesel xxX filmed in 2002. Beginning of the movie was shot on the Old Town Square (the producers managed to depopulate it, which was almost an im possible task), then the camera wandered the Týnská Street, the Powder Gate, the Republic Square and the seat of the Czech philharmonic – Rudolfinum.

In 2004 our country was visited by Wolverine – Hugh Jackman, in those times without his comic book claws, but with his long coat and hat as Van Helsing. The battle in the village with three brides of Dracula (probably the best part of the movie) was filmed at the Kunratice Castle in Prague 4. Then the hero walks the street Na Kampě under the Charles Bridge, where one of the brides offers him a trade. The magnificent ball of vampires was filmed in the Saint Nicholas Church.

This list of Hollywood hits, which included Prague to its scenes, naturally doesn't end. Furthermore, there were shot movies like The Bourne Identity (street Kampa, street of Political prisoners, the Senovážná square) or A Knight's Tale (Prague Castle, the Charles Bridge). Before the walk in our metropolis we recommend to watch all of these mentioned movies.

SHOPPING SPREE

S even out of ten European online customers buy goods in e-shops outside their home country, 57 percent even outside Europe. The reason is mainly better prices, wider offer or cheaper transport. Increasingly, they also make decisions based on how they can return goods if they do not like or fit the size.

Of course, this does not mean that customers give up on domestic production. After all, with that, all the shops could close. But the foundation is clear - you need to be assertive and be able to offer something unique to your customers that they can't buy elsewhere.

And we have prepared such tips for you on the following pages. We chose carefully and promise that in each of the presented establishments you can get something that they would not offer anywhere else. We wish you good hunting!

Film Legends Museum is a unique project, the likes of which you will not find in Europe. This is a purely Czech project, which presents Hollywood in detail. The museum introduces visitors to collectibles and pop culture.

It focuses primarily on sculptures, action figures and replicas from movies, TV series, but also games. You can find Film Legends already in two locations.

The museum in Poděbrady was opened in March 2016, followed by a second branch in Prague, which opened its doors to the first visitors in February 2018. The Prague museum takes up more than 1000 m<sup>2</sup> and there are more than 650 exhibits of various scales – from 1:6 to life size.

The range of exhibits is really varied, so everyone can find something they like.

Children can look forward to an extensive Disney collection where they will see characters from famous fairy-tales – for example Frozen, Cars, Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs, Inside Out, and many others. There are also heroes from modern films – Avengers, Justice League, Harry Potter, Pirates of the Caribbean and countless others. Last but not least, the collection also contains rare relics from movie classics such as Predator, Alien, Terminator, Avatar, Lord of the Rings, and more. The featured games include God of War, The Witcher, Mortal Kombat and Batman: Arkham.

The layout of the collection is based on the needs of the youngest visitors. The exhibits are therefore separated into two rooms, and there is also a spacious children's corner and silent movie projection, where visitors can relax with movie classics. Each of the exhibits is very detailed and hand-painted, and exists in a very limited amount. In all three branches, over 1700 exhibits can now be seen, which makes the museum one of the largest of its kind in the world.

The museum, which is literally a paradise for movie fans of all ages, also hosts weekend programs accompanied by live film characters. Do you want to go there and see everything with your own eyes?

ST. APOLINAR - NEO-GOTHIC GEM

When you come across this impressive building, you can't help feeling that this is what a real magic school would look like. But the Apolinar is doing a more meritorious thing - for decades it has been helping the people from Prague get to the world.

Neo-Gothic Provincial Maternity Hospital at St. Apolinare made of red gray bricks immediately transfers everyone to old England. The building was designed by the leading Czech architect Josef Hlávka, built between 1867 and 1970. At the time, it was the largest and most modern maternity hospital in Europe.

The building of the modern maternity hospital was created on impulse of Count František Thun-Hohenstein due to very poor hygienic conditions in the existing facilities in Prague. In 1863, the Provincial Committee entrusted the Kingdom of the Czech Builder Josef Hlávka to work out a project to build a new Provincial Maternity Hospital. Finally, he decided for a square plan with an inner rectangular courtyard in the middle, a four-winged core and eleven tracts that lead to different parts of the hospital and are interconnected by corridors.

The architecturally most interesting part of the building of the Land Maternity Hospital is the Chapel of St. Cross. It is located on the first floor, above the entrance hall. The space of the chapel is formed by a rich star cellar vault, which leads in the central column.

The building under the Church of St. Apolinare is one of the most famous in the republic. It is the original place of alcohol drunk tank. It was the very first drunk tank in the world and became a Czech export article, because it has proven itself good and was established in a similar way to the rest of the world.

PIKNIK PARK

- A FRESH BREEZE IN MALÁ STRANA

There are many attractions and so-called tourist traps near famous Charles Bridge. And there's also a lot of commotion. Where can one enjoy the beauty of the old city and not have to push and shove through the crowds of curious visitors? Without a doubt in Piknik Park.

The recently opened Piknik Park restaurant is located in the heart of Malá Strana, just a few steps from Charles Bridge and Lennon's Wall, right on the banks of Čertovka. Čertovka in Prague is a place that separates Kampa from the rest of Malá Strana. It is an artificially created water channel that was built back in the twelfth century and still astonishes with its beautiful conception. Piknik Park is situated right at Čertovka, so the view is truly unique.

The interior of the enterprise is above reproach. It is a new, completely renovated place, designed with feeling and is quite intimate. The restaurant and garden holds a few dozen people, which I personally see as a great positive. Large businesses give off a much less personal impression, and one often feels like they are in a factory cafeteria.

The restaurant menu is focused on Italian cuisine. This is a somewhat unusual choice for the center of Prague. But it makes sense. The pursuit of a typical Czech meal has become the nonsensical mantra of many Prague businesses, and the gastronomy has stagnated in recent years as a result. Not to mention that although Czech cuisine is excellent without debate and has many advantages, at the same time it is very heavy and can't be eaten all the time (in the sense that one likes to have it out of curiosity but then prefers something lighter). The pure Italian cuisine is therefore a breath of fresh air in Prague, and in this case also an authentic one. Piknik Park has two Italian cooks under its thumb, all the dishes are made of high quality and fresh ingredients and always according to the best traditions of Italian cuisine.

Due to the focus on Italian cuisine, it is not surprising that the beverage menu isn't dominated by beer (but of course, it's on tap there). On the contrary, wine plays a primary role, which is delivered by the Vínó Hruška winery. A stylish wine shop is part of the restaurant and people can hear the offer there. There is really a large selection, the wines are delicious, and if you would like to have a glass with your meal (or even a few), it would be a big mistake to go over the offer there and not taste anything. Even though Czech wines clearly dominate the offer, there are, of course, also foreign wines.

In spite of its location in the heart of Malá Strana, Piknik Park does not have any excessive prices (which also applies to the wines where a whole bottle is priced in the hundreds of crowns). What, on the contrary, Piknik Park has - and it is a real rarity in these parts - is a year-round garden. Something like that is not common in Prague, and it's a tremendous shame. Of course, it is worth visiting the city even in colder weather, and there is no reason to hide from it. In order for the garden to be a year-round garden, it has thermal heaters.

Once again, Picnic Park is out of the ordinary, it is also thanks to the live music on the terrace (playing every day!). It is usually created by two musicians (such as a violinist and a guitar player) which gives the atmosphere of the place a truly unique touch. It's almost like from a movie - a romantic retreat in a beautiful city, excellent food, a candle on the table, and pleasant, unobtrusive and yet intoxicating background music. There is something magical about it.

It's no problem to go without a reservation to Piknik Park, but if you're preparing to go there in the evening, a reservation won't hurt. Due to its location and excellent gastronomy, it's a place that's very popular not only with tourists but also with Prague residents, despite its short existence.

Of course, it is also possible to rent the whole space for a private event. However, in that case it is good to think ahead and make a reservation in time. In the case of a reception, you do not have to stick to Italian cuisine - the chefs will be happy to hear any of your wishes.

Every city is in a way „hostage“ to supply and demand. It demonstrates the trend and, to a great extent, it may stifle originality. Piknik Park goes its own way. It offers a place that is not afraid to be elegant, affordable at the same time, with refreshing cuisine and a location that is popular for its scenic walks. You will certainly not lose out by visiting.

PROUD BEER

Beer has particularly in the Czech Republic a rich history and a very strong position. We consider it together with legendary hockey player Jaroslav Jäger as our largest international gold and we're very proud.

We are not proud on the label „Czech beer“ by a chance. This is one of the Czech symbols and since 2008 the name „Czech beer“ is protected as a geographical indication. Overall, the Czech Republic for its production, which is about 20 million hectoliters of beer annually, is on the 15th place in the world. It is not a little amount on the small country in the heart of Europe.

Beer is also an important export article of the Czech Republic. Every year, the Czech Republic exports more than 2 million hectoliters. About 40% of exports go to Germany, followed by exports to Slovakia, Sweden, England and Russia.

So yes, we have a beer to be proud of and we rejoice with him. On the following pages you will find a tip on best beer in Prague. Taste it well!

Upon entering the U Sádľů restaurant, we immersed ourselves in the magic of history. On the walls are preserved period inscriptions, weapons, boars' heads, skins and mosaic windows. As for food, we definitely recommend the duck and goulash. Even from the photos, you can see that this establishment doesn't try to save on the portions. The duck falls apart by itself, and we can definitely say that you'll find few places in all of Prague where you'll enjoy it this much. Duck certainly has to be washed down, so Budweiser Budvar Original, drawn in two pulls, will come in handy. Why two pulls? In U Sádľů, they treat the most popular Czech beverage with the appropriate care, and therefore every beer has its recommended drawing method so that it tastes as good as possible. If you want to discover real old Czech cuisine, the U Sádľů restaurant is a clear choice.

Lokálka [The Local] will immediately win you over. At the entrance, you can't help but notice the two beer tanks in which Budvar 33 awaits you. You can also enjoy draught Budweiser Budvar Original here. If you order a beer, you'll also get freshly fried home-made potato chips with it. What else do we have here that's delicious? Among others, the menu includes excellent soft ripened Olomouc cheese in bacon, honest marinated Hermelín cheese and steak tartare; of the main courses, you definitely shouldn't miss the baked pork ribs, pork knee, LOKÁLKA Special burger and pork tenderloin. Even from the photos, it's clear that the food from the kitchen is a winner. From the starters, we can definitely recommend the very ripe Olomouc round cheese, and of the main courses we succumbed to the magic of the local hamburger with home-made bap, and the grilled pork knee.

SINFUL NIGHT LIFE OF PRAGUE CITY

Why will be deluding ourselves. Every good capital, whose streets pulsate with life, must have beside restaurants, bars, cafes and shopping centers also (as the novelists say) the houses of love. And even Prague is no exception. But before we go into its streets, let's make a small historic revision.

It is no longer the rule that these places are for desperate individuals. Time progressed. When was the phenomenon of night clubs or prostitution itself actually born? Well, not for anything they say that it's the oldest profession of the world. It is probable that prostitution has evolved from religious belief and rituals which were held to celebrate the goddess of fertility in the Middle-Age. In the 19th century it was strongly developed and reached all segments of society from politics to high art (for example Vincent Van Gogh lived for years with a Flemish prostitute).

We know that it's not easy to find the right company in which you can feel natural and comfortable. Indeed, there are lots of them and if you had to visit them all, it would cost you the whole wealth.

For this reason, we are showing few short "best of" tips in the following pages. We guarantee that you definitely won't be bored. The ride full of excitement and beautiful women is awaiting!

6. THINGS YOU MUST KNOW ABOUT PRAGUERS IN ADVANCE!

1) PRAGUERS ARE ALWAYS IN A BAD MOOD

When there is someone with a grumpy expression that points out that he would like to kill you, don't take it personally. Prague residents are always in a hurry and still seem to be in a bad mood. In short, it works like that here. But otherwise they are fine!

2) THEY DON'T WAIT FOR THE GREEN LIGHT

You can also recognize true Praguers by ignoring the traffic lights. In short, he is looking for every possible space that will be offered to him on the road, and when he sees the opportunity, he immediately crosses the street. Red, green, it doesn't matter.

3) THEY DRINK BEER, A LOT OF BEER

The Czech Republic is well known for its excellent beer, and the Czechs have certainly never concealed themselves by being able to „send a few pieces“ to themselves. But if you with such a Prager for a beer, don't be fooled. “Going out for one beer” is really just a phrase. Every Czech drinks an average of 142 liters of beer per year, while during an average session, the trained Prager handles some 8 pieces and is not even out of his breath.

4. THEY MUST ALWAYS PLAN SOMETHING

You will probably feel like lazy, because the Praguers have - it seems - planned perhaps every minute of the day. And this also applies to weekends. It can only be Monday morning and the right Prager already knows what he will do on the weekend.

5. THEY ARE OBSESSED WITH CARS

Although Prague has one of the best transport links in Europe, if we talk about public transport (train, metro, tram, bus), Prague citizens are still obsessed with driving everywhere. And even though they have to wait in the traffic jams for an hour.

6. THEY DON'T SEEM, BUT THEY HELP

Praguers are vigilant because someone keeps putting them something on the street or wants money from them. And this is really annoying them. Therefore, when you stop them, they immediately go into defense mode and can look very dull. Don't let this scare you. As soon as he realizes that you just want some advice, they change completely and almost leads you to the place. They don't seem that, but they're sweeties!
